LOG CABIN
by
Erastus Brown

Description of a cottage in the wilderness, built by an old man in the 75th year of his age. A member of the M E Church 56 years, & a local preacher of the same order 45. Who was pressed by misfortune from the land of his nativity, to take up his abode in the far western wiles. Written in a letter by Erastus Brown, to his son Saml Brown. Michigan, Feb. 21st 1846. Copied Sept. 19th 1854.

This cot is built on rising ground
Gently descending all around
Full 20 by twenty eight;
Its pretty large but none to great.
Full twelve logs high below the plates,
Covered with shingle not with slate.
The logs are straight & chinked up tight,
Painted with plaster clean & white;
It has eight windows that is all;
To give us light both spring & fall;
An upper & a lower floor,
And on each side there is a door;
And by each door ther's windows, two;
To let the morning light shine through
And to each window sash twelve squares,
(Through which little Sardis looks & stares)
They're made of whitewood not of pine,
Filled out with glass seven by nine.
Likewise we have a Union Stove;
By which we cook, & round it move;
A pipe that rises up ten feet,
Entering a flue of brick complete,
To carry out the rolling smoke
The steam of white & yellow oak.

--- ooo ---

For further information, come
And see my new & happy home.
For we have circuit preaching here,
And think we shall have all the year.
About one mile from Michigan,
There you may find the poor old man,
Whose years are dwindling to a span;
Yet preaching often as he can,
At other times a clearing land.
In Indiana's north east town,
Where still resides Erastus Brown.
Farewell until we meet again,
On Indiana's pleasant plain,
Or rise to blissfull realms above,
Where all is happiness & love,
And Christ forever reigns.

IN MEMORY- Joseph L. Hay, son of Henry S. and Amanda (Hedges) Hay, was born in Urbana, Illinois on August 1, 1868, and died in Norwich, Ohio, July 27, 1956. He was married in Janesville, Wisconsin, August 1, 1897 to Marion Estelle Spencer, daughter of John Cadwallader Spencer and Helen M. Brown. Mrs. Hay died February 22, 1951. (See DSGR Magazine, June 1951, p. 147.) Mr. Hay was a representative for an iron and steel company and lived in Detroit, Michigan from 1916 until 1952. Both he and Mrs. Hay were active members of the Central Methodist Church in Detroit. Both were also ardent genealogists and compiled a large amount of material on the many families to which they were related. All this material was given to the Burton Historical Collection. Mr. Hay took his wife's place and code number in the Society. He is buried in Norwich, Ohio. There are no close survivors.

A PETER WRIGHT LINEAGE
 Oyster Bay, L. I. to Bourbon County, Kentucky
 Compiled by William R. McCann, Hopewell, Virginia

It is our intention to show by reasonable evidence that our subject, a locally well-known Peter Wright (d. 1793) of pre-municipal Covington, Virginia, was descended from immigrant Peter Wright (1635) of Oyster Bay, Long Island through his grandson, Adam Wright, Jr.

The descent from Peter Wright of Oyster Bay to Adam Wright, Jr. is well documented, and is generally accepted. This dissertation is to marshal facts which will support our contention that Peter Wright of Covington was a son of Adam Wright, Jr. of Oyster Bay. Virginia and Kentucky Historians, O. F. Morton, F. B. Kegley, and Mrs. W. B. Ardery, have noted that Peter Wright of Covington, Virginia, was a son of Adam Wright, but none has attempted a determination of this Adam Wright and his forebears, whom we now propose to tie to the settlement of Oyster Bay, L. I.

In H. D. Perrine's "Wright Family of Oyster Bay, L. I." (1923), the line of descent from immigrant Peter Wright(1), who came from England to Massachusetts about 1635, and who later founded Oyster Bay, L. I., is carried down through son Adam(2), 1650-1696/98, to Adam(3), who d. in 1749, and whose eight children Perrine lists as Rachel, Deborah, Peter, Thomas, James, Reuben, Solomon, and Abigail.

In O. F. Morton's "History of Alleghany Co., Va." (1923), p. 213, it is stated that "Thomas and Peter Wright were sons of Adam Wright of New England. The first died in 1755 without issue. Peter, who married Jane Hughart, had these children - Sarah, Rebecca, Rachel, Martha, Jane, Nancy, Elizabeth, Thomas, James, William, John, Peter, and a daughter whose name is not known."

Although western Long Island had been settled originally by the Dutch, the Treaty of Hartford in 1650 established the Connecticut River as the boundary between Dutch New York and English Connecticut, a boundary which was extended on southward from Oyster Bay to the Atlantic Ocean. Thus, at even this early date, the great proportion of Long Island was English territory. Further, the Treaty of Westminster, in 1674, extinguished the Dutch sovereignty in America; so all of Long Island, in 1755 when Thomas Wright died, no doubt would be classified as New England.

In "Wright-Hamilton Families" (1935), Mrs. W. B. Ardery says of William Wright(6), 1783-1880, of Bourbon County, Ky. (a son of Capt. James and Martha Hamilton Wright) that his (William's) "great grandfather, Adam Wright, was a citizen of the New England States. His son Peter was William's grandfather." Mrs. Ardery's paper was based on material compiled in 1863 ("The Register", Jan. 1935, Vol. 33, No. 102, p. 78).

In F. B. Kegley's "Virginia Frontier" (1938), under heading "Peter Wright of Jackson River", p. 371, it is stated that "Thomas and Peter Wright were sons of Adam Wright of New England. They had a brother James, and sisters, Rachel and Deborah. Thomas died in 1755, no children." It is to be noted that the names of the five brothers and sisters listed by Kegley, and of two brothers listed by Morton, correspond precisely to the names of five of the eight children of Adam Wright(3) of Oyster Bay, L. I., as listed by Perrine; and Mrs. Ardery joins with Kegley and Morton in stating that Peter Wright(4) is a son of Adam Wright of New England.

Although aforesaid citations clearly substantiate our premises, we have also confirmed our authorities by examining photostatic copies of three Wright wills, from which the evidence may be summarized as follows:

- 1) The will of "Adam Wright of the east end of the great plains in the bounds of Oyster bay in Queens County on Nassau Island," written the "twenty-third day of the fourth Month in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty nine" (April 23, 1749), was probated November 28, 1749, and is recorded at New York County, N. Y., Liber 17, page 28. In this document the testator mentions his eight children. Of his three elder sons, "Peter Wright, Thomas Wright, and James Wright", Adams says "let it is to be understood I have given each of them a Gun heretofore which is all I can give them." The inference is that these sons were of age, but since three "trusty friends," Thomas Davis, John Hewlitt, and Joshua Powell, were named executors, it may be assumed that the testator's elder sons were not residents of Oyster Bay at the time of their father's death.

Two younger sons, Solomon and Ruben Wright were clearly minors, who were to be "put out to good Trades at the discretion of my Executors." In the case of Ruben, apparently the youngest son, this apprenticeship was stipulated as lasting "during the Term of eight years", which description leads us to believe that the boy may have been approximately thirteen at the time of his father's death. A "youngest Daughter Abigail Wright" received no further bequest because she "is with my Wife and by her agreement she to take care and provide for her."

Two other daughters, Rachel Wright and Deborah Wright, were to have "all my household Goods within doors", "the sum of one pound Ten Shillings" to be realized from the sale "of my stock of cattle and horse kind," also "one third part of my crop of oates." All other properties of the estate were to be sold to pay debts with any possible remainder "to be equally divided between my Two youngest Sons."

Since no provision was made for his wife's living and since his household goods were given to his elder daughters, one might suppose that Adam Wright may have had two wives and two successive families. As young men Peter, Thomas, and James evidently left the parental roof to seek their fortunes elsewhere; Rachel and Deborah, who probably ministered to their father at the last, inherited his household furniture in addition to a sum of money. Solomon, Ruben, and Abigail may have been children of a second marriage, which failed to come up to expectations, since the partners were evidently living apart at the time of Adam's death. One wonders whether this man's obviously straightened financial circumstances were the cause or the consequence of a marital disappointment.

2) On Sept. 19, 1755, Thomas Wright, then "of Augusta County," Virginia, "being Verey Sicke and Neake of Body", made a will to dispose of his "Worldly Estate", which instrument, proved on Nov. 20, 1755, is recorded in Deed Book 2, page 126, on file in the Augusta County Clerk's Office, Staunton, Virginia. Since leaving his native Long Island, this son of Adam Wright, Jr. of Oyster Bay had achieved a means of livelihood and a reasonable competence though he had never married. To his nephew Thomas Wright, son of his brother Peter, he left three horses, two colts, his carpenter's tools and his crosscut saw; to another nephew James Wright, also a son of brother Peter, he gave a mare and a colt. For his brother Peter Wright he specified the cancellation of a five-pound debt and the legacy of "My Rifle Gune" - perhaps the same that he had received as his paternal inheritance.

"The Remeander of my Estate to be Devided Eakwilly amongst" "Brother James Wright and Sister Reatchel and Debora Wright." Significantly Thomas of Virginia made no mention of his father's later offsprings Solomon, Ruben, and Abigail Wright, who were possibly only his half-brothers and half-sister. Or could it be that these younger children were born after Thomas and Peter left home, and so were actually unknown to the testator of 1755? "Peeter Wright and Jams Wright both my Brothers" were designated executors of Thomas' will, but only Peter qualified, and there is no evidence that either James, Rachel, or Deborah Wright ever came to Virginia.

3) Peter Wright, brother of Thomas aforesaid and son of Adam Wright, Jr. of Oyster Bay, is mentioned frequently in the Augusta County records and later, upon severance from Augusta, in Botetourt County, Virginia, where his will, written Nov. 12, 1793, proved December 1793, is recorded in Will Book A, page 365, of the Botetourt County Probate Records, at Fincastle, Va. At the time of his death Peter Wright was past eighty years old; his will mentions his "well beloved wife Jane" (Hughart) Wright and eight of his thirteen children. To his son Peter Wright, who with Jacob Persinger, was named executor of the will, he left his plantation (located in what is now Covington, Va.), his "Still and Still Vessels", as well as slaves, horses, hogs, sheep, and "Six head of the Cattle." The widow was provided a dwelling room in the plantation, one featherbed, and "Furniture", as well as the use and command of one female and one male slave, a horse, and two cows. Other slaves were left to each of three married daughters and to two grandchildren, a son and daughter of Thomas Wright of Greenbrier.

"All the Remaining Cattle to be Disposed of at publick Sale and Equally Devided Among Mary Smith (the unnamed daughter in the Morton citation above), Agness (Nancy) Clark, Rebecca Kinkead, Jane Estill, and Rachel Proctor by the Executors of this will."

The data of these three wills leads overwhelmingly to the conclusion that our Peter Wright (4) of Covington is directly descended from Peter Wright(1) of Oyster Bay through the latter's grandson, Adam Wright(3).

The only evidence contrary to this conclusion is a statement by Perrine, on page 88 of his "Wright Family of Oyster Bay, L. I.", identifying Thomas Wright son of Adam, Jr. as follows: "Thomas Wright (Adam, 27), d. July 8, 1786; m. Mary _____. Was a miller. Removed to Town of North Castle, Westchester Co., N.Y. (N. Y. Hist. Soc'y Collections, 1902, Vol. XI, pp 195, 207, and Appendix.) Issue - 95 Sarah, 96 Elizabeth, 97 Stephan, 98 Thomas, b. 1794-5; d. about 1829." The numerals affixed to the names are Perrine's cross references; Adam, 27, in the numeration of Perrine, is Adam, Jr.(3) son of Adam, Sr.(2), and grandson of Peter(1). Checking Perrine's references we discover a will of this Thomas Wright of North Castle, dated Dec. 1, 1776, naming his wife Mary and children, Elizabeth, Sally, Steven, and Thomas; also two affidavits dated July 1766 stating that Thomas was "very ill and near his end, and he believed that he died the same day the will was wrote and executed" and that "he did not appear to be in his rational senses for some days before his death." Consequently the will was adjudged null and void through the insanity of the testator.

Careful study of these references indicates that Perrine mistook a date (July 8, 1786) of one affidavit to be the date of death of Thomas Wright, the miller: and simple arithmetic discloses an obvious discrepancy in Perrine's birthdate for the son Thomas, Jr., eighteen years after the father's death. More important for our present discussion, none of Perrine's sources provide any evidence, other than propinquity, to connect this Thomas of Westchester County with the Wrights of Oyster Bay. Lacking knowledge of the Virginia records it was but natural that Perrine should draw the conclusion he did.

However, the name Thomas occurs frequently in the families of the early Wrights who settled in Massachusetts and other colonies; so Thomas of Westchester County, N. Y. may have belonged with one of these. One Thomas Wright, a great-great-grandson of Sir John Wright, Lord of Kelvedon Hall, Kelvedon Manor, County Essex, England, with his wife (a daughter of Lt. Cranbroke of Cranbroke Hall, County Essex) and five children (Thomas, James, Samuel, Joseph, and Lydia) came to America in 1635 on the "Susan and Ellen", settled in Watertown near Boston, and subsequently on death of his wife moved in 1640 to become one of the first settlers and a prominent citizen of Wethersfield (then in Massachusetts, but soon to be Connecticut). Information on this Thomas is condensed from "The Wright Family", George W. Wright, Albany, Ore., 1929, p. 17 and elsewhere therein.

Anglian Wrights and Some Immigrants

"The Wrights of the Kelvedon branch trace back to Sir John Wright, Lord of Kelvedon Hall, County Essex, England, born 1488, died 1551, while those who are of the Kilvestone branch trace their ancestry back to Sir Thomas Wright of Kilvestone Hall, County Norfolk, England. Both of these branches descend from the Old Saxon Wryta Family of Bayeux, Normandy." Wryta (Wryhta), like the Latin "Faber", means a workman of any kind, especially an artisan in wood or hard material - the millwright of a century ago.

"William Wright of London, England, of the Kelvedon line, son of Lord John Wright, was the first to settle in New England, where he landed near Saugus, Mass. in 1621. Several others of the Kelvedon line came to Massachusetts between 1621 and 1640, among them Thomas Wright, wife, and children, and Anthony Wright, his brother; Richard Wright; Samuel Wright; Edward Wright; George Wright; and others of the Kelvedon branch."

"William Wright married in England Priscilla Carpenter, sister of Alice (Carpenter) Southworth who was second wife of Governor William Bradford and came on the second ship to New England - the "Fortune", July 1621; they lived at Scituate, Mass., where he died in 1633, leaving all property to his wife, Priscilla, who married (2nd) John Cooper of Barnstable and removed with him to that place in 1639." - "Genealogy & History," Item 2562(a).

"Likewise there came to Massachusetts, Wrights of the Kilvestone branch, among them Peter Wright, Anthony Wright, and Nicholas Wright, all descendants of Sir Thomas Wright of Kilvestone Hall, County Norfolk, England."

"Alice Wright, who was born in England about 1614, of the Kelvedons, came over in 1635 at age of 21 to join relatives who preceded her."

"The marriage of Peter Wright and Alice Wright, distant cousins, brought about a union of the Kelvedon line and the Kilvestone line of Wrights in the children."

The Bourbon County (Ky.) Wrights and their descendants, several of whom are mentioned hereinafter, are of both lineages; but the male strain is Kilvestone; the female strain is Kelvedon.

In 1635, three Quaker brothers, of names Anthony, Nicholas, and Peter Wright, are recorded as living at Saugus (near present Lynn), Massachusetts; and, in 1637, all three are at Sandwich of Plymouth Colony (now in Barnstable County) on the Cape. They are believed to be sons of Nicholas Wright(A) of County Norfolk, England, by his second wife, Margaret Nelson (m. Sept. 20, 1594), his first wife being Margaret Jeffers of Neatinshed (m. November 15, 1582); but this Anglian descent has been challenged. Parents of Nicholas(A) were Nicholas(B) and Ellen Gylbert Wright; she was daughter of William Gylbert, Vicar of Barton Turf, 1517-1531; Ellen m. February 18, 1559, obit. January 10, 1582, after which Nicholas(B) m. January 25, 1589 Margerie Alyssander, widow of John Raaspoole (obit. July 4, 1588). Parents of Nicholas(B) were Nicholas(C) and Anne Beaupre Wright; she was widow 1578-79.

The three Wright brothers were granted land at Sandwich, Massachusetts, where they remained until 1653. In a division of land dated April 16, 1640, Peter and Nicholas each received 2-1/2 acres, and Anthony received two acres. In the spring of 1653 the Wright brothers joined a company of about a dozen families under leadership of Reverend William Leverich for purpose of forming a new settlement on Long Island, to which they journeyed by water in the sloop "Desire" of Barnstable (John Dickenson, Master) ending the voyage at the new Long Island home-site named Oyster Baye, where they were soon deeded lands by Indian Asiapum (alias Mohensis), the consideration being various utensils plus wampum and peake (small change) of value totalling four pounds sterl. The above notes are from a fascinating genealogy by Howard Delano Perrine, who spent thirty-five years of research to develop ancestry and descendants of "The Wrights of Oyster Bay, L. I." (1923). Continuing, quoting Perrine, "Peter Wright might almost claim the title of 'Founder of Oyster Bay'. He was the only one of three original purchasers of the town from the Indians, who actually settled and remained in town. Both Samuel Mayo and William Leverich moved soon thereafter. Of those admitted as associates not one continued there more than ten years except Anthony and Nicholas Wright and Robert Williams." All three Wrights functioned frequently in early-colonial Oyster Bay; Peter was a sergeant of the train-band (1652).

Anthony Wright(1) lived and died a bachelor; he was b. in County Norfolk, England, in the first decade of the 17th century; in life, as a blacksmith, he served his townsfolk well; his will is dated September 4, 1680, probated December 8, 1680, at Oyster Bay.

Nicholas Wright(1) was born in England in or a little before 1609-10. He died at Oyster Bay, L.I. in November, 1682, at age 73. By his wife, Ann (surname unknown), he had nine children - Caleb, John, Edmund, Rebecca, Sarah, Deborah, Mary (Mercy), Martha, and Tamar.

First Generation in America

PETER WRIGHT(1), eldest son, Nicholas(A), Nicholas(B), Nicholas(C), was born in County Norfolk, England, in the last decade of the 16th century, and died intestate at Oyster Bay, L.I., between Feb. 13, 1660 and September 14, 1663. His wife was Alice Wright, a distant cousin, to whom he was married in England prior to 1635; she was probably born in the second decade of the 17th century, and survived her husband to marry Richard Crabbe; she died February 24, 1685 at Oyster Bay, "aged 70 years and upward."

The above statement pertaining to Peter Wright(1) has been abstracted from Perrine's "Wright Family of Oyster Bay, L.I.". Regarding the death of Peter, we note and quote a conflict by George W. Wright of Albany, Oregon:- "The records of Wills of N.Y. state that Peter Wright was drowned in 1675 while on a trip to Virginia, probably at the same time as his daughter, Hannah Wright, 'the Devotee', a zealous preacher of the Quaker faith. The records of the Surrogate Court of N.Y., of the date 1675, state that Gideon Wright, who was the oldest living son, was appointed Administrator of the estate of his father, Peter Wright." Also in conflict with Perrine, George W. Wright says that Alice Wright, born about 1614 in England, was daughter of William Wright (the son of Lord John Wright) who arrived in America on the "Fortune" in 1621. Alice, he says, came over in 1635 to join relatives, and was married to Peter Wright in 1637. We continue herein, rather closely in accordance with H. D. Perrine.

Children of Peter Wright and Alice Wright, most all born in Sandwich:

1. Peter Wright(2), b. March 1637; d. Feb. 26, 1651 in Sandwich.
2. Gideon Wright, Sr.(2), b. July 1638; d. June 1685; m. Elizabeth Townsend who was b. in Oyster Bay and whose parents were John, 1st, and Elizabeth Montgomerie Townsend. They had eight children:
 - i. Elizabeth Wright(3), m. 1688, Isaiah Harrison. In "Settlers By the Long Grey Trail," by J. Houston Harrison, 1935, it is indicated that many Harrisons of old Augusta Co., Va., descend from this marriage.
 - ii. Peter Wright(3), probably unmarried.
 - iii. Gideon Wright, Jr.(3), m. July or Sept. 5, 1702, Margaret Urquhart or Urghartt, dau. of John Urquhart.
 - iv. Anthony Wright(3), m. Sept. 18, 1702, Mary Rhodes.
 - v. Silvanus Wright(3), m. Mary Proctor.
 - vi. Hannah Wright(3), m. her cousin James Townsend, son of James and Elizabeth Wright Townsend. Vide infra.
 - vii. John Wright(3), m. Jan. 27, 1707-8, Abigail Barker.
 - viii. Tabitha Wright(3), m. Aug. 16, 1711, John Brook.
3. Job (sometimes Jos.) Wright(2), b. December 1639; d. Sept. 13, 1706; m. Rachel Townsend who was b. in Oyster Bay and whose parents were John, 1st, and Susannah Harcourt Townsend. They had six children:
 - i. Anthony Wright(3), m. Elizabeth
 - ii. Keziah Wright(3), m. May 29, 1712, John Burr.
 - iii. Rachel Wright(3), m. Sept. 1, 1715, Thomas Stokes.
 - iv. Hannah Wright(3), m. Robert Townsend of Long Island.
 - v. Jacob Wright(3), m1st Hannah Townsend of Oyster Bay; m2nd Mary Richardson of Chester, Pa.
 - vi. Elizabeth Wright(3).
4. William Wright(2), b. February 1641; d. in Sandwich, May 2, 1648.
5. Mary Wright(2), b. 1642; d. 1688; m. Oct. 30, 1663 to Samuel (Edwards) Andrews of Oyster Bay. They had eight children:
 - i. Mordecai Andrews(3), b. June 11, 1664; m. Apr. 7, 1691 to a French lady.
 - ii. Peter Andrews(3), lived only six months.
 - iii. Peter Andrews(3), b. Mar. 28, 1671.
 - iv. Hester Andrews(3), b. Oct. 12, 1673.
 - v. Hannah Andrews(3), b. Feb. 23, 1675; d. 1686.
 - vi. Edward Andrews(3), b. Jan. 16, 1677-8; d. Oct. 26, 1716; m. 1694, Sarah Ong.
 - vii. Jacob Andrews(3), b. July 12, 1680; d. 1686.
 - viii. Mary Andrews(3), b. May 29, 1683.
6. Hannah Wright(2), "The Devotee", b. 1646; unmarried; drowned Mar. 3, 1675 in Virginia. While on a Quaker mission, she was crossing the Potomac from Maryland to Virginia with a party of seven, three of whom were drowned; her father may have accompanied her. Vide supra.
7. Sarah Wright(2), b. Feb. 11, 1648; m. Edmund Wright, son of Nicholas Wright(1), q.v.
8. Mordecai Wright(2), b. Oct. 30, 1649; d. Mar. 20, 1650 in Sandwich.
9. ADAM WRIGHT'(2), b. Mar. 20, 1650. See next generation.
10. Elizabeth Wright(2), b. 1653-4; d. before October 1677; m. 1671 James Townsend of Oyster Bay. He m2nd Jane Ruddock. James and Elizabeth Townsend had five children:

5. Peter Wright (3), d. 1698, probably unmarried.
6. Job Wright (3), m. (perhaps) Mary Leverich.

Third Generation

ADAM WRIGHT JR. (3), Adam Sr. (2), Peter (1), Nicholas (A), Nicholas (B), Nicholas (C); date of birth unknown; d. 1749. In his will, Adam describes himself as "Yeoman, of East End of the Great Plains in the bounds of Oyster Bay"; he mentions his wife, but not her name.

Children of Adam Wright Jr.:

1. Rachel Wright (4), m. Jan. 12, 1736-37, John Frost. See "Frost Genealogy", p. 28.
2. Deborah Wright (4), m. April 6, 1737, Benjamin Farrington of Long Island.
3. PETER WRIGHT (4). See next Generation.
4. Thomas Wright (4), d. Augusta Co., Va., between September 19 and November 20, 1755. He was a carpenter and was apparently unmarried as his will names (only) his brothers, sisters and nephews (vide supra). The name Thomas Wright appears not infrequently in the early records of Alleghany and Augusta Counties; but care should be observed to distinguish between the pioneer brother of Peter of Jackson River and the latter's son, Thomas (5). Pertaining to Thomas (4) we find a few notations prior to his demise in 1755; apparently Thomas had settled some way up on the Cowpasture, a stream which joins the James River just easterly of what is now Clifton Forge, Va., some dozen or more miles from Peter Wright's holdings on the site of present-day Covington, Va. F.B. Kegley in his "Virginia Frontier", p. 167, states that Thomas Wright, about 1749, was one of eighteen who were to maintain a road on the Cowpasture. On p. 131, Kegley recites that "Further west on the Cowpasture and Bullpasture were settlements well established in 1751 and 1752," and Thomas Wright is listed among those who petitioned for a road from Wallace Austin's Mill to the road at head of Calfpasture. In Chalkley's "Records of Augusta, 1745-1800", p. 44, it is stated that on May 28, 1751, Thomas Wright among others was granted an order to repair road. Evidently Thomas's district really needed roads.

5. James Wright (4), b. Mar. 14, 1721; d. May 17, 1776; m. January 1, 1756 to Amy Patterson who d. May 11, 1803; they moved to Bedford, New Purchase, Westchester County, New York, and are buried in the yard of St. George Episcopal Church, New Castle, New York.
- i. Sarah Wright (5), b. Jan. 22, 1757; d. Nov. 28, 1837; m. Thomas Hauxhurst of Buckram, L.I.
 - ii. Jesse Wright (5), d. 1816.
 - iii. Mary Wright (5), b. Jan. 7, 1761; d. June 5, 1839; m. Jesse Simons.
 - iv. Amy Wright (5), m. Feb. 10, 1783, Jacob Conklin of Westchester County, N.Y.
 - v. Phebe Wright (5), m. Oct. 4, 1781, Benjamin Harice (Harris) of Westchester County, N.Y.
 - vi. Fanny Wright (5).
6. Reuben Wright (4).
7. Solomon Wright (4), dates of birth and death unknown; bapt. December 1742; m. Aug. 26, 1768, Mary (Smith) Hauxhurst of North Hempstead, L.I. and moved to Carmel, Dutchess (now Putnam) County, New York.
1. Solomon Wright (5).
8. Abigail Wright (4), no information available; however, New York State licenses reveal that an Abigail Wright m. July 16, 1762, Robert Rossiter. Abigail is not mentioned as a living sister by Thomas Wright (d. 1755 in Augusta County, Vir.) who mentions brothers Peter and James and sister Rachel and Deborah.

IN MEMORY:- Mary Margaret Haney, daughter of William Haney, Sr. and Mary Emma Dunham, both born in Pennsylvania, was a charter member of The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. She was born on October 29th, 1879 at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania and died in Detroit, Michigan, June 18, 1956. She was married to Robert J. Dale at her mother's home in Vandergrift, Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day, November 28th, 1901 and they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1951. Mrs. Dale was an active member of the Methodist Church all of her life, and was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and several other fraternal organizations. Also she was Column Editor for "The Jury Box," published by the Wayne County Juror's Association. Her husband, two sons, two daughters, eighteen grand-children and thirteen great grand-children survive her.

SOME DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT BARTLETT, EARLY SETTLER
OF THREE NEW ENGLAND TOWNS, CAMBRIDGE, MASS., HARTFORD, CONN., AND NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

Compiled by Olive M. Searle of Westfield, Mass.

5. SAMUEL(3)BARTLETT(Samuel(2), Robert(1)), son of Samuel(2) and Sarah(Baldwin), b. Northampton, 26 Aug. 1677; m. Sarah(); moved to Bolton, Conn., after 8 Apr. 1712, as the inventory of his father's estate mentions the "house, barn and homestead that Samuel lives on". He was severely wounded in the pursuit of the Indians after the attack on Pascommuck, 13 May 1704. In 1705, he petitioned the General Court for a gratuity. He stated that he was not able to labor till August. During the next winter he was impressed into the service for the "Grand Scout towards West River". On his return his horse was drowned. The Court granted him three pounds for loss of time and for his wound, but nothing for the horse. There is some question as to whether this service was performed by Samuel(3) or his father. Since Samuel, Sr., was over sixty years old at this time, it seems much more likely that it was the twenty-eight year old son who was impressed for a scouting expedition, as well as the one who saw service in Queen Anne's War.

CHILDREN, of Samuel(3) and Sarah()BARTLETT, from the Bolton, Conn., vital records, although at least the three older ones were probably born in Northampton:

- i. Sarah, (4) b. 12 Mar. 1707; d.
- ii. Hazadiah, b. 22 Sept. 1708; d.
- iii. Experience b. 18 July 1712; d.
- iv. Edmund, b. 1 Aug. 1716; d.
- v. Elinor, b. 3 Mar. 1719; d.
- vi. Eunice, b. 20 Jan. 1721; d.
- vii. Gershom, b. 19 Feb. 1722; d.
- viii. Eunice, b. 14 Apr. 1725; d. 9 Nov. 1748; twin.
- ix. Joseph, b. 14 Apr. 1725; d. ; twin.
- x. Jonathan, b. 1 Aug. 1726; d.

6. MINDWELL(3)BARTLETT(Samuel(2), Robert(1)), daughter of Samuel(2) and Sarah (Baldwin), b. Northampton, 30 Jan. 1682, d. there 26 June 1741; m. 7 Mar. 1708, Waitstill Strong, son of Thomas and Rachel(Holton), b. 1677/8, d. 13 Nov. 1762, Northampton.

CHILDREN, of Waitstill and Mindwell(3)(Bartlett)STRONG, all born Northampton:

- i. John, (4) b. 2 Dec. 1709; d. 19 Oct. 1779; m.(1) Hannah Root; (2) Eunice Brown.
- ii. Mindwell, b. 30 Oct. 1711; d. ; m. Samuel Clapp, Jr., Southampton.

- iv. Phoebe, b. 31 Dec. 1714; d. 13 Nov. 1753; m. John Wright.
- v. Benajah, b. 30 June 1717; d. 12 Jan. 1783; m. #23 Mabel Bartlett.
- vi. Eleazer, b. 1 Apr. 1721; d. ; twin.
- vii. Ithamar, b. 1 Apr. 1721; d. 28 July 1805; m. Experience King.

7. JOSEPH(3)BARTLETT(Samuel(2), Robert(1)), son of Samuel(2) and Sarah(Baldwin), b. Northampton, 29 Dec. 1683; d. Easthampton, 3 Aug. 1755; m. about 1676, Mercy Dudley, daughter of Joseph of Guilford, Conn., d. Easthampton, 18 June 1759, in her 67th year. The inventory of his father's estate, dated 25 Feb. 1711/12, includes the "grist-mill and 10 acres of land that Joseph has". This mill was built on the north bank of the Manhan River, near the present center of the town of Easthampton. It is not certain how long after this Joseph built his house but he was certainly the first permanent settler of this part of the town. He kept the first public house in town and had charge of it for more than twenty years. From his will (1754-55) it is evident that by inheritance or purchase he had become owner of his father's grist-mill and fulling mill and a part interest in the saw mill. In 1748 the town of Northampton drew up a list of 260 males over 21 years of age with their estates as a basis for another division of land. In this list Joseph Bartlett had the largest estate.

In 1738, like his father and grandfather, he had been elected constable but rather than serve, he paid a fine of five pounds.

When the controversy arose that culminated in the dismissal of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards from his pulpit, Joseph Bartlett and his nephew, Jonathan Clapp, were among the few faithful friends. What this meant in the way of strength of character is shown in a letter of Mr. Edwards'. He says, "A person by appearing my friend at Northampton, even so much so as openly to discountenance my being turned out of the pulpit, exposes himself to the immediate persecution of his neighbors, and perhaps of his nearest friends."

Further evidence of the interest of Joseph Bartlett in religion appears in his will. He leaves land to his brothers, Preserved, William and Ebenezer, on condition that each contribute L-4-8-11 "to a Church of Christ if God in his providence shall order it that there shall ever be such a church which shall ever assemble to attend and celebrate divine ordinances and worship within half a mile's Distance of my present dwelling-house." Thirty years later, on 17 Nov. 1785, a church was organized at the house of Joseph Clapp. In 1786 a committee was appointed to collect the donation of Joseph Bartlett. With the interest that had accrued it amounted to L-14-1-3, and was expended in the purchase of a communion service. A large silver goblet from this set is on display in the present church. The first church building stood on land now enclosed for a park, near the present location of the First Church.

Joseph Bartlett had no children but his nephew, Jonathan Clapp, son of his sister, Elizabeth, lived with him for many years and with his son Joseph inherited the major part of the estate of Joseph Bartlett. Jonathan Clapp married his first cousin, Submit Strong, daughter of Mindwell Bartlett, so Joseph Clapp with two Bartlett grandmothers was more Bartlett than his cousins who bore the Bartlett name. Jonathan Clapp became a major and Joseph a captain in the Revolution.

To his wife Mercy, Joseph had left all his "movable estate, except man servant Peter and maid servant Dimah (who were to be free after his death) and also 1/3 of real estate during her life". When, at her request, her third was set off to her, it included "use of the mill one third of the time, i.e. Mondays and Tuesdays".

He bequeathed to his nephew David, son of his brother David, one-half of the grist mill and 1/8 of the sawmill. The ownership of the mills remained in the family for one hundred and seventy-five years and that section of the town was for long known as Bartletts' Mills.

8. EBENEZER(3)BARTLETT(Samuel(2), Robert(1)), son of Samuel(2) and Sarah(Baldwin), b. Northampton, 1685, d. there, 30 Nov. 1769, m. (1) Martha Lyman, daughter of Moses and Ann, 1 Dec. 1715. She d. 28 May 1724, aged 29. He m. (2nd) Elizabeth Burt of Springfield; m. (3d) 5 Feb. 1730, Sarah Strong, daughter of Ebenezer, Jr., and Elizabeth(Parsons), b. 7 July 1698, d. 21 July 1754. His will, dated 14 May 1763, proved 3 Jan. 1770, leaves to son Ebenezer, b. 40, to daughter Ann Bartlett, "all personal estate which I had by her mother, my first wife", to daughter Miriam, wife of Haines Kingsley, & L-13-6-8, remainder to sons Moses and Simeon, they to be executors.

73 HENRY HOUTZ, (son of George), b. 27 Dec. 1777; d. 2 May 1852, Chippewa Twp., Wayne Co., Ohio; m. Ann Halliwell, by 1804. It is thought that he may have been baptized at Klopp's Church, Hamlin, Pa.; however, extant records of that church show a gap in baptisms between 21 Sept. 1777 and 8 March 1778. It is believed that he lived with his mother and foster father, Elizabeth and John Stull, in 1790, in what is now eastern Lebanon Co., Pa. On 20 Oct. 1795, Henry Houtz, in Dauphin Co. court, chose David Krause of Lebanon as his guardian. At least for a short time, in April, 1799, Henry Houtz lived in Smith Twp., Washington Co., in western Pennsylvania. Not long after this, he went across the Ohio River to Jefferson Co., Ohio. In 1808, he purchased 102 acres of land in section 29 of Cross Creek Twp., Jefferson Co. On 13 Sep. 1813, he and his father-in-law, George Halliwell, both of Jefferson Co., applied for patents for land in Franklin Twp., Stark Co., Ohio (now a part of Summit Co.). By 1815, Henry Houtz and his family were in Chippewa Twp., Wayne Co., Ohio, near what is now Doylestown. He and his brother-in-law, George Halliwell, Jr., were among the first settlers of that township. Henry bought 160 acres of land in section 8, and is said to have had the first cook stove and carriage in that part of the county. After his death in 1852, his property was sold and the proceeds divided among his children.

Ann (Halliwell) Houtz, b. abt. 1786, in Pennsylvania; died 8 Dec. 1862, at the home of her son, Dr. Henry Houtz, 210 Prospect St., Cleveland, Ohio. She was bur. Old Methodist Cemetery, Doylestown, Ohio. Ann was the dau. of George and Anna Halliwell, who were among the first settlers of Cross Creek Twp., Jefferson Co., Ohio, by 1800. George died abt. 1817 in Franklin Twp., Stark Co., Ohio; Anna, his wife, d. after 1820. After the death of Henry Houtz in 1852, Ann Houtz continued to live in Chippewa Twp., Wayne Co., until after 1860.

Children of Henry and Ann (Halliwell) Houtz:

81 HOUTZ, (son of Christopher), possibly named George or Philip, born abt. 1776; d. before 1840; m. Mary Magdalena ___, before 1800. She was b. 1775/76, in Virginia; d. abt. 1854, Greene Co., Tenn., leaving a will dated 1843 and probated 1854 in Greene Co. There is some chance for confusion in interpreting the will of Mary Magdalena Houts and other records; however it is believed that the following data are correct, although incomplete.

Children of ___ and Mary Magdalena Houts:

- 811 Susanna Houts, b. 179___, d. before 1843; m. Jesse Ellis before 1820. He was b. 179___; d. after 1843. Children included Rollin or Rolante Ellis, b. 1822, Tenn., living in Greene Co., Tenn., wife Mary, b. 1826, Tenn.

SALUTE TO THE PAST
Sarah Van Hoosen Jones

Humbly I accepted the honor bestowed upon me by the Program Committee to give a short talk on the past accomplishments of our much beloved Society. Having accepted the assignment, I went to work delving into the past twenty years of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. Several of the members presented me with very pertinent material. This, combined with other material which I found in the back files of the Magazine, gave me so much data that I was confronted with the task of selecting the most important events.

On September 12, 1936, the first meeting took place in the Club Room of the Detroit Public Library, following the announcement by the Detroit News on the 10th that persons interested in the formation of a genealogical society were to meet there. The society was to "promote an increasing interest in the study and research of genealogy, to create a friendly co-operation between those interested in the fascinating subject, and to provide a regular time and place of meeting." For the story of the birth of ideas on the part of three or four of the charter members-to-be leading to the meeting, I refer you to the Magazine for October, 1951. There you will find a letter by our good Treasurer, L. A. Merrill, written to Edwin P. Hill. This letter shows how close the matter was to the hearts of the men who pioneered the Society.

Thirty-three persons met on that September afternoon. Elijah Hunter Owen acted as Chairman. After he had elaborated on the purposes of such an organization, temporary plans were effected immediately, followed by plans for a permanent Society. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and bylaws. Two weeks later, on September 26, the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research adopted its constitution and bylaws, and elected these officers: President, Edwin P. Hill; Vice-President, Mrs. F. A. DeBoos; Recording Secretary, H. F. Sturtevant; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Margaret Grant; Treasurer, Marquis E. Shattuck; Editor, Clarence R. Martin; and Assistant Editor, Mrs. W. F. Carter.

And thus the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research came into being. There is joy in new creations, but its companion, anxiety, is usually not far behind. Thus work is required to bring success to the new project. The new members were not lacking in their willingness or ability to labor for their new-born. If time permitted we should have liked to pay tribute individually to each charter member. Charter members are always hardy souls. While these were not charting new seas, they were making charts for others to follow in tracing ancestries. May we especially salute this initial group. A chronology of the first year, written by Marquis E. Shattuck, may be found in the May-June number of the Magazine for 1947.

Honor is due fifteen men who have served as Presidents during these twenty years of our Society. They have been the leaders and co-ordinators. They represent milestones in the progress of an organization. With this in mind, let us turn for a few minutes to the roster of these men in order of service: Edwin P. Hill, our first President (1936-37); Harold E. Moyer, noted for epitaphs (1937-38); Roy E. McFee, with our publication going from Bulletin to Magazine (1938-39); Clarence R. Martin, first Editor, and Treasurer for several years (1939-40); Oliver S. Smith, a member of the legislature (1940-41); L. Austin Pearce, with the Magazine changing to a bi-monthly (1941-43); Francis Waring Robinson, Curator of Ancient and Medieval Art at the Detroit Institute of Arts (1943-45); Elijah Hunter Owen, creator of a chart still in use, but stricken soon after his first meeting, and requiring the leadership of the Vice-President, William C. Hudson (1945-46); William C. Hudson, with the Society growing under his care (1946-47); Marquis E. Shattuck, a charter member who has given and continues to give much to the Society (1947-48); Maurice W. Fox, who applied business ability and finance, and helped the ten-year index to completion (1948-50); George F. Blount, contributing much in energy, good will, and enthusiasm (1950-52); David H. Reynolds Page, an excellent leader and parliamentarian (1952-53); Haviland F. Reves, a perceptive and efficient President with marked ability to care for details (1953-55); and George R. Raub, Sr., the present President, who brings much to our Society through his unusual knowledge of many patriotic groups (1955 to date). We have great pride and gratitude because of these fifteen men who have so magnificently guided the Society in its first twenty years.

And now to the Magazine -- I spell it with a capital "M". This has made our reputation, by creating so many outside contacts. It is our chief asset, our tower of strength, and the standard by which we are judged beyond Detroit. Our first publication was a Bulletin, issued in mimeograph form. In Mr. McFee's presidency the Magazine came into existence, two years after the founding of the Society. Today the Magazine may be read in 52 libraries in the United States, Canada, Mexico and the Netherlands. I experience such a delight when working in a distant library to casually note the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Magazine ranged neatly on that library's shelves, or to talk with librarians in the New York State Library or in that of the Latter Day Saints in Salt Lake City, only to find them quite conversant with our publication. And surely those eastern states of Massachusetts and Connecticut bow to the Midwest when they place the Magazine upon the shelves of the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, and of the Connecticut State Library at Hartford.

The success of the Magazine is due primarily to its seven able Editors. The Editors of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Magazine for the twenty years to date are these: Clarence R. Martin (1936-37), Mrs. William F. Cleveland (1937-38), Harold F. Sturtevant (1938-39), Miss Maude C. Hathaway (1939-41), Mrs. E. B. Kresge (1941-43), Miss Maude C. Hathaway (1943-47), Mrs. Raymond Millbrook (1947-53), and our present Editor, Mrs. Wilson McTeer (1953 to now). Our salute to these persons is one of deepest gratitude and pride.

We might have a word or two about memberships. Upon reviewing the growth of our Society, I noted certain items of interest. On December 12, 1936, three months after the founding, 53 members were present. The following February there were 85. At the end of the first year, in September, 1937, the membership stood at 152. Our latest active membership list just published shows 525. Our fall issue of the Magazine states that the one thousandth membership slip was recently given to Commander C. Denby Wilkes, USNR (now residing in Paris, France) and nephew of Colonel Edwin Denby of Detroit, once Secretary of the Navy.

While speaking of members with distinguished relatives, we might mention also Miss Mary Ann Lowell, deceased, grandniece of James Russell Lowell; Dr. Richard Mudd, grandson of Dr. Samuel Mudd, who set the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth; and Mrs. A. W. Humphrey, who is a third cousin of the Great Emancipator through the Hanks line. There are no doubt many other members with distinguished relatives, but these three have been selected as examples.

Our membership has not been wanting in the publication of books and articles. I wish to mention the works of Frank Roy Kepler, Haviland F. Reves, Miss Mary Shaw Green and Mrs. Raymond Millbrook. These again are only a few taken at random. I am quite certain that about twenty individual books have been published by members of our Society over the twenty years that we are celebrating. We take great pride in this crowning activity of our members.

Among our assets is the wonderful co-operation and friendly relation between our membership and the staff of the Burton Historical Collection. This began with Miss Gracie Krum, former Chief of Burton, and her earlier staff, and has continued under her successor, Mrs. Elleine H. Stones, and the present staff. All have been so very helpful. They have assisted us whenever we needed them in making up programs, as well as giving individual help to us when working in their department. Furthermore, the Detroit Public Library as a whole has never failed to provide for our needs most fully. We pay tribute to all these people.

Other interesting points in the development of the Society might be mentioned if time allowed, but we have touched many of the principal ones. I should have liked to call on and ask to stand every person in the audience who has contributed his or her share so generously in the building of the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research, but tempus fugit, and we can only express appreciation from the depths of our hearts.

In conclusion may I make one last point -- something of which we may be supremely proud. After twenty years we are still growing, instead of slowing down as we might so easily be. May we meet again at the end of the next twenty years with the same vigor and enthusiasm.

REPORT OF MEETINGS
Roy E. McFee

The new year began with enthusiasm at the Society's meeting of September 8. Miss Alice Cook, Reference Assistant at the Burton Historical Collection, ably continued the series of talks by staff members on recent books in that department.

She spoke first of O Godly Heritage, by Ella Chalfant, which is a book about the Allegheny frontier in Pennsylvania. From this book we learn, for example, that old wills show how our ancestors lived, because at least there is indicated what the testator considered important -- disclosing it in what he said when he knew he was facing death.

The speaker referred next to Family Records -- Mississippi Revolutionary Soldiers, by Welch; Tax Lists of Washington County, Pennsylvania; Index to Alabama Wills, 1808 -- 1870, by Alabama Society of D.A.P.; Four Thousand Tombstone Inscriptions from Texas, 1745 -- 1870, by Biggerstaff; and Sand, Sawdust and Saw Logs, by Frances Caswell Hanna -- this being part of Burton's extensive material on Michigan lumbering. Still others were: J. L. Hudson, the Man and Store, by Webber; Contributions to Human Nutrition, Gerber Products, by Nisbet; The Original Has This Signature: W. K. Kellogg, by Powell (about the Corn Flake King); The Custer Myth, by Graham (a Custer source book with bibliography); and Nuttall's Travels into the Old Northwest, 1810, edited by Graustein, and being a heretofore unpublished diary of a naturalist who took extensive note of flora and fauna.

One more was Our Michigan Heritage, by Gillard. Of the book, Miss Cook said: "We may like to add it to our private libraries. It is ostensibly a book on literature in Michigan. But this does not necessarily mean classic literature. The book treats of literature in a broad sense, starting with Indian myths, and rather asserts that we have not yet begun to see the flowering of literary Michigan."

Next came the showing of two historical films with sound, both based on restored villages. The first was "Early Settlers in New England," filmed at Salem, Massachusetts. It portrays the Sixteen-Hundreds at that village. It is in black and white, lasting 11 minutes. The picture and voice describe the first building of bark wigwams, and of dugouts into the hillside. They tell of the later hewing of timber, and show the fireplace being used in the home. A goat is being milked, with the ocean nearby. Still later come bricks, shingles, soft soap, corn crops, and medicinal herbs. And the Salem leaders write back to England: "We form one body politic, joined by common consent."

The second film was "Dear Nancy," taken at Sturbridge, Massachusetts, and showing the early Eighteen-Hundreds. It is in color, and lasts 30 minutes. It tells of the green in the center of every New England village, about which were school, church, tavern and stores. There is portrayal of farm buildings, covered bridges, plowing oxen, autumn colors, the barn dance, and Thanksgiving. In telling of those days, the voice speaks from the later viewpoint of 1850. It concludes by telling Nancy that those early times were really good, in that they gave everyone a variety of work and a chance to create with his own hands and mind.

A luncheon meeting on October 13 commemorated the 20th anniversary of the founding of our Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. This luncheon, one of the most brilliant gatherings in the Society's history, was held at the Elks Club, Royal Oak, Michigan, instead of having the regular meeting at the Detroit Public Library.

Present were 112 persons, to include not only members, but husbands, wives and friends, besides spokesmen for historical groups, and other distinguished guests -- one being Mayor Howard K. Kelley of Royal Oak. Attending were nine of the Society's Presidents, and three women who have been its Editors for a total of 15 years, besides many charter members. Another at the speakers table was Mrs. Elleine Stones, Chief of Burton Historical Collection.

The members of the Social Committee had worked long and capably. The private dining room was beautifully decorated with flowers on every table -- these all contributed. A large white birthday cake rested on the center of the speakers table, bearing 20 tall white candles to be lighted at the dramatic moment. Music added its grace and charm to the occasion.

President George R Raub, Sr., presided. Miss Lucy Mary Kellogg had her important part as Program Chairman, and Roy E. McFee served as Toastmaster.

After the invocation by the Reverend Charles Jatho of Royal Oak, Mayor Kelley gave an address of welcome. The President read letters of regret from Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit, and from Ralph A. Ulveling, Director of the Detroit Public Library.

The Toastmaster talked briefly on what the Society has meant to us in these 20 years, then introduced the first speaker. She is our member, Miss Sarah Van Hoosen Jones, who was born on the centennial farm at Rochester, Michigan, where she now resides as the fifth generation of her line to own it. There she has developed a Holstein-Friesian dairy herd which has won many honors. She was twice elected to the Michigan State Board of Agriculture, thereby serving 12 years on that governing body of Michigan State University. That institution recently conferred on her the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Miss Jones spoke on "Salute to the Past," reviewing our 20 years of history. Her very excellent talk is printed in full on other pages of this issue.

The second speaker was our member, Ross Keelye Cook, of East Orange, New Jersey. He was born in Philadelphia, where some of his ancestors lived at least 40 years before the arrival of William Penn. He was educated at Rutgers University. He is of course a distinguished genealogist. Among his many genealogical distinctions, he is Commander General of the Military Order of the Crusades, Genealogist General of the National Huguenot Society, Secretary General of the General Society of War of 1812, and a Surety for the Baronial Order of Magna Charta, besides being past President of several other like organizations. He spoke on "The Future of Genealogy, and Related Matters."

Mr. Cook congratulated the Society for reaching its 20th birthday and for accomplishing so much, and had special praise for the successive Editors of our Magazine. He said, "You are far in advance of any genealogical society in the East." He also said that hereditary societies are growing but are not as active as they should be. He made a prediction that in the future, genealogy will center about Salt Lake City -- and this within 10 years.

The speaker suggested these books: ABC's of American Genealogical Research, by Kirkham; Guide for Genealogical Research, by Bennett; and Genetics and the Races of Man, by Boyd.

President Raub then introduced guests, and expressed appreciation for all who had helped make the luncheon a success. The benediction was given, and a very impressive meeting came to an end. Thus we tried that day to keep faith with our founders and with all those who had given of their devotion for these 20 years. And we like to think that if our ancestors themselves could have looked in, they would have approved.

At the meeting of November 10, a packed auditorium heard Mrs. Bernice Sprenger, Reference Assistant at the Burton Historical Collection. She gave a very helpful overall picture of the books recently added to the Collection. She explained that in the past at Burton, the emphasis has been on collecting county histories of areas in the East which provided the pioneers for the Old Northwest Territory. Now, however, the library is trying to obtain county histories of those Western states settled by former residents of that Old Northwest.

She mentioned these books: Inscriptions from Three Abandoned Cemeteries in Yates County, New York, by Cleveland; Story of Grand Rapids, Michigan, by Holt; Past and Present of Clinton County, Michigan, by Daboll; Marriages of Pittsylvania County, Virginia, 1767-1805, by Knorr; History of Public Schools of Hamtramck, Michigan, by Miller; Colorado Imprints, by McMurtrie and Allen; and Ohio in Maps and Charts, by Morrison (a book to help teach history).

Other books were: History of Accidents, Casualties and Wrecks on Lake Superior, 1847-1930, by Bullard; Early American Steamers, in 2 volumes, by Heyl (including Great Lakes boats with diagrams to scale); and finally, Wilderness for Sale, by Havighurst. The last is a book with maps, on the acquiring of land by pioneers in the Northwest. Mrs. Strenger said, "It is a fascinating story. It's style is charming, and it can be read for fun."

There followed a splendid talk on the subject, "Personal Reflections on Some Quaker Activities," by Miss Edith Haviland, a teacher in her home city of Adrian, Michigan. She spoke in particular of her own Quaker family and neighbors in that fruitful Raisin Valley.

These Friends of the Adrian community came in a body from Royalton, Niagara County, New York, in 1832 and 1833. They worshipped first in her Haviland family's log house in Adrian.

These early Quakers, although plain and simple, nevertheless lived in thrifty elegance. Their houses were modest, but well-built, with much attention to detail. In their clothes they loved quality and workmanship. While the women dressed in quiet colors, the materials were of the finest silks, velvets and satins. Clothes of the men were handsomely tailored.

Some Quakers became well-to-do, but still helped the needy. One farmer was asked to sell some corn. He first made certain that the man had money, then said, "Go over to that place, where corn can be bought. We are keeping ours for those who have no money to pay for it."

Miss Haviland's first real appreciation of her Quaker ancestors came to her as a girl, when her school principal asked her, "Do you know that your Raisin Valley Seminary has educated some of the most outstanding persons in the State of Michigan?"

One great leader among the Adrian Friends was Mrs. Laura S. Haviland. "Aunt Laura" founded her Raisin Institute on the plan of Oberlin College, making it coeducational and interracial. Honoring her today, a statue stands before the Adrian Court House, a town and college in Kansas alike bear her name, and her life is made part of Michigan's story.

BACKGROUND FOR GENEALOGY
Minnie Dubbs Millbrook

Although grain and bread were scarce during the first years of the colonists in America, the forests were filled with deer, squirrel and turkey, while the rivers and sea teemed with fish, lobster and clams. Poorly equipped, the settlers were not always able to catch these woods and water creatures and were sometimes hungry in the midst of plenty. In Jamestown in 1607, the first colonists starved along through the late summer on oysters and crabs only to have a surfeit of meat in the fall when the rivers were covered with ducks and geese and the woods full of "wild beasts as fat as we could eat." Then for a time they were starving again. It was evident that domestic animals were necessary to insure a steady supply of meat.

Johann Printz, governor of New Sweden put the matter this way, "It is impossible to colonize the land without cattle." And as most of the early colonists were from England or northwestern Europe where cattle were the principal domestic animals, the great desire was for cattle. Nearly every colony reported early importation of such animals, although the difficulties were great and the increase at first slow. Perhaps one reason for the slow increase was the great appetite for beef and veal. Though 100 cattle were landed at Jamestown in 1611, only 128 were counted in 1617. Hence, in 1619, legislation forbade anyone to "kill any neat cattle whatsoever, young or old, especially kine, heifers of cow-calves" without permission from the governor.

Cattle are naturally adapted to a country of mingled woodland and grassland and thrive in well-watered or even swampy pastureland. Therefore cattle thrived on the eastern seaboard. On the other hand, sheep were not adapted to a low-lying forested country, almost wholly lacking in grass. The forest also harbored wolves that were more destructive to sheep than to other animals. As late as 1666 a Maryland commentator stated, "Few desire them (sheep) because they commonly draw down the wolves among the plantations." So although a great quantity of lamb and mutton had been eaten in England and all the colonies tried to bring this habit to America, it did not become established. Only a few sheep were kept for their wool. Hence even today, little lamb or mutton is eaten in the United States.

If the success of the cattle in the colonies may be called satisfactory, that of swine was spectacular. This was demonstrated even before the English came to the new world. DeSoto the Spaniard brought over a small herd of swine which were driven along with his expedition for three years over several thousands of miles. Although there must have been some losses, none were killed, the herd being kept for a food reserve. Near the end when DeSoto died, there were 700 head. Similarly "three sows" were imported at Jamestown in 1608 and by the end of the year the colonists rejoiced in "sixty odd pigs." By 1617 they were beyond counting and listed as an "innumerable number of swine." While the snowy cold weather of New England did not allow the unconfined rooting through woods that made the pigs so happy in Virginia, they did very well there too. In 1644 the Swedes assigned one boy to take care of the cattle, but, because there were so many, two men and a boy were necessary to look after the swine.

The omnivorous chicken also made itself readily at home in the new world. As early as 1608 there was written in a Virginia record, "Near five hundred chickens brought up themselves, without having any food given them." Wild turkeys were abundant in the woods but they were soon killed off. They were never domesticated, and it is the turkey from England that is now grown commercially here.

Along the eastern coast with its many rivers, fish were plentiful and much used. The cod became symbolic of Boston and the fisheries of New England were the first commercial industries of that region. But as soon as the settlements had pushed any distance from the coast, there was no way to supply the back country with this perishable product. Therefore, as a whole, the United States' inhabitants eat very little fish as a matter of habit, although modern transportation and refrigeration now make fish available everywhere.

The total consumption of meat in the United States is now extremely high since the productiveness of the country is so great. This plentitude of meat as a token of economic advantage is denoted in the labor union's phrase of "pork-chopper" or the political slogan, "A chicken in every pot." Ham and eggs together are considered the most typical of American dishes.

Joseph Eddy, Michigan Pioneer

Born near Providence and Gloucester, R.I. in 1763/64, Joseph Eddy as a young man went to Vermont with his Quaker cousin, Jacob Eddy II b. 1771. They lived near St. Johnsbury, Lyndon, Sutton, and at Barton where Joseph worked for Jonathan Robinson during a severe New England winter, carrying grain and food supplies on his back to the people of the area. In the spring of 1796 they went to Rutland Co., Vt., resided at Brandon and at Danby where Jacob was Town Clerk; Joseph later moved to Clarendon.

From Clarendon, Vt., Joseph traveled west and migrated from "far up the Hudson River country" through New York State sometime after 1807. Joseph's years of residence in New York at Auburn, Phelps, Rochester, and Sodus, where some of his children and grandchildren were born, proved to be the beginning of his westward move across Canada to Michigan.

Joseph Eddy with his large family arrived at Detroit in 1824 to find that the Land Office was at Pontiac. It took him three weeks with ox team, by Walled Lake Road, to go from Detroit to Pontiac where on Sept. 20th, "Joseph Eddy of Wayne Co., N.Y. purchased from the Government, land in Novi Township, then known as Route No. VI, Oakland Co., Michigan." Until 1827, Novi Corners was called Bloomfield, and here Joseph established the first cooper's shop. Nearby was Zachariah Eddy, at Novi in 1824, who opened the first shoe shop. Abel and Henry Eddy were residents there in 1828. Their relationship is not known.

In 1836, Joseph Eddy bought land from the Government in Eagle, Clinton Co., Mich., and moved there in 1837. He was appointed Overseer of Highways and Overseer of the Poor. It was there that John Eddy of Ohio who claimed he was a brother of Joseph came to see him. In 1841 at Eagle, Mich., Joseph m. 2nd at 77 years, Jane Phillips, age 50 years. His will dated and probated in 1842 was the first will recorded in Clinton County and is now in a special vault at St. John's. Among articles mentioned in his will was that of his prayer book, suggesting the Church of England.

According to the signature on a deed in Oakland County, Joseph's first wife and mother of his children was Lovisa, Lovina, Navina, or Naomi. She died after October 1835. His children were: (1) Stephen m. Susanna Phillips, Abigail Jenks and Margaret Miles; (2) Enoch m. Amelia Glover, dau. of Alexander and Sarah (Salisbury) Glover; (3) Joseph m. Deborah Phillips; (4) Jeremiah m. Serepta Westcott; (5) Abraham m. Sophia Newsom; (6) Sally m. Henry Harrington; (7) Lydia m. Jacob DeWitt; (8) Phebe m. Isaac Phillips; (9) Amanda, twin, m. Alexander Chappell; (10) Samantha, twin, m. John Miles Mansfield; and (11) Naomi m. Ezra Stevens and Elam Wright. All of the children came to Michigan with their families or married in the state.

Jeremiah Eddy, above, b. 1791, m. Serepta Westcott, b. near Providence, R.I., in 1793, dau. of Thomas (a descendant of Stukley Westcott, founder of the Historic Charter of the Colony of Providence, R.I. in 1638) and Maria Westcott. Thomas took the Freeman's Oath at Clarendon, Vt., prior to 1781. A deed of 1809 stated that his land joined that of James or Jos. (?) Eddy, or both, which land joined that of Oliver and Johnson Westcott. The children of Thomas and Maria Westcott were: Maria, Serepta, Charles, Palmer, Nathan and Eleazer.

The children of Jeremiah and Serepta (Westcott) Eddy were: Harvey, Orange, Eliza, Jane, Charles, Miranda, Edna, Lovisa, and Weltha. All were born in Michigan.

Family tradition states that Joseph the Michigan Pioneer was the son of a Joseph, a family name; that he had a half-brother John; and that his ancestors had been coopers in America. Except for proof by will, or other papers specifically stating that he was the son of Joseph II of Gloucester, R.I., his descent seems to be proved by date and residence.

William Eddy, vicar of St. Dunstan Church, Cranbrook, England from 1591 to 1616 had two sons John and Samuel who came to Plymouth Colony in 1631. From Samuel the descent is Zachariah I, Zachariah II, Joseph I, Joseph II and Joseph the Michigan Pioneer. Joseph I ca 1713-1781, was a Quaker but served in the French and Indian War in Rhode Island during 1760-61. Joseph II, ca 1740-1777, m. Mary Harrington, belonged to the Church of England, and lived near Gloucester, Rhode Island.

A LETTER TO JENNY HUNTER

Dear Jenny:

I was properly surprised when you asked about Connecticut and Vermont. Not that I should have been -- but so many people have Connecticut ancestors, one forgets the condition isn't universal. These two particular states (and for economy in paper, you'll now meet them as Conn. and Vt.) are alike in many, many ways, which is readily understood when you recall that many towns in Vt. were settled by groups from Conn. "mother"-towns; Weathersfield and New Fairfield sent founders for Weathersfield and Fairfield; similarly in the Hartfords, Norwiche, Wallingfords, and so forth. Due to the migrations of peoples and ideas from Conn. to Vt., you will find many parallels in your searches in both areas. I'll try to point out a few as guideposts.

Town histories can well be the first point of attack in either state. A favorite project of many an ex-town clerk or historically-minded citizen was a town history with genealogies of local families, 60 or 70 years ago. Not all were as thorough as Mr. Bowen in the History of Woodstock (Conn.) Families or Mr. Jacobus in the History and Genealogies of Families of Old Fairfield. With access to more records than some of the early authors, you may amplify or correct some of the data given, but the town history usually gives you more information more quickly than you can find it elsewhere. And most towns in Conn. and Vt. have a written history. After the town history, we'll seek records.

Vital records were kept by the towns in both Conn. and Vt. and are found in the town records. It would be pretty tedious to search town by town, but you don't have to. In Conn. the Barbour Index was compiled by copying town records, which were later transferred to individual slips (with town, type record and reference cited) and filed alphabetically. Town, church and private records supplied the items which now number over a million and cover the period of earliest settlement to about 1850. (After 1850, you do go back to the towns.) This Index is housed in the basement of the State Library at Hartford. Here in Detroit, we have the data on microfilm with 17 reels of Town Records (35 mm.) and 81 reels of alphabetized Vital Records (16 mm.)

The Secretary of State in Vt. has collected vital records from all over the state, which are on cards, filed alphabetically. He is also the custodian of all vital records of current interest. If you do not know where your Conn. or Vt. ancestor lived, a check of vital records at Hartford or Montpelier should reveal the family, if not the actual individual. It really helps to narrow the search.

Land records were also kept by the towns. Again, short cuts are available. Copies of microfilms of town records, filmed by the Church of Christ of the Latter-Day Saints have been deposited at both Hartford and Montpelier. Land records in Vt. are also found in the Public Records office in the Supreme Court and State Library Building basement.

Probate records also point up similarities -- being recorded in "districts" in both states. Each state has more districts than counties. Probate districts and towns for Conn. are listed in the front of Vol. I of Manwaring's Digest of the Early Conn. Probate Records, Hartford District, pages ix-xxx. Likewise, Vt. probate districts are listed by Mmes. Reed and Holman on p. 65 of Vol. 27 of The American Genealogist. Many early probate files in Conn. have been gathered at the State Library, where you use original documents, dating back of 1650. I have a notation that they have 200,000 files of estate papers from 83 of 119 probate districts, but this figure may be out-dated now.

Census records in the federal tallies are complete for both states. Each State Library has microfilms of the federal censuses of that state. The 1800 census for Vt. has been published and will be found in most genealogical libraries.

Church records -- if extant -- might be located through the WPA Historical Records Surveys. Also, the Conn. State Library has the original records of over 600 churches, besides many private records. The Vt. State Historical Society has some church records.

Conn. special references will start with Savage, Hinman and Goodwin's early lists and should include the records of the colonies of Connecticut and New Haven; Bailey's Early Conn. Marriages (7 v., 1896-1906); Manwaring's Digest of the Early Conn. Probate Records, Hartford District, etc. Also in Conn. we find Mr. Jacobus and his American Genealogist, the outstanding magazine which developed from his Families of Ancient New Haven. You are quite apt to find Conn. problems covered in his magazine. In the third and latest Index to Genealogical Periodicals, Mr. Jacobus included "My Own Index" of selected families treated in ancestral books or compilations, most of which are from New England or Long Island.

A genealogical inquiry page in the Saturday edition of The Hartford Times has a wide circulation all over the country. Several of the pamphlets published in celebrating the tercentenary of Conn. yielded specific family items of interest. Also see if your library has a microfilm of the Conn. Courant or Hartford Courant -- it might be helpful.

Special references for Vt. start with Miss Abby Hemenway's Vermont Historical Gazetteer in 5 volumes (1868-1891), indexed in 1923. Miss Abby collected the tales and trivia of each town, which have been starting points for many a searcher. Probably 500 early Vermonters are covered in the 8-volume Records of the Council of Safety and Governor and Council of the State of Vermont, 1775-1836. Grantees in townships set up by Gov. Wentworth of New Hampshire may be found in Vol. 26 of New Hampshire State Papers and more Vt. records are found in O'Callaghan's Documentary History of New York, vol. 4. And you'll find your time well spent in studying Mr. Gilbert Doane's "Stumbling Block in Midwestern Genealogy" in the Indiana Magazine of History for March 1938, pp. 14-33.

Libraries of help to you are the State Libraries, the State Historical Societies, Yale University Library and local historical societies, such as New Haven, New London and Middletown in Conn. and Bennington and Middlebury in Vt. In the March 1948 issue of the National Genealogical Society Quarterly, the Conn. State Library's facilities are well described by Miss Case of that staff. The Library is open 5 days a week, 9 to 5. One problem is parking -- solution: arrive by 8 to secure an all-day spot and have your breakfast in the State Capitol. Besides the Barbour Index and their splendid book and manuscript collections, ask about cemetery inscriptions and early census records, still being interfiled, in another building. The Conn. Historical Society has its own beautiful building in another part of the city, where you find important manuscript materials from early genealogists.

In Montpelier, the Vt. State Library is open 5 days a week from 8 to 4:30, with an hour off for lunch. In the same Supreme Court and State Library Building, is the Vt. Historical Society with its own library, the extensive Colonial Dames' collection, the DAR compilations, church records, Vt. Graves Registration File, etc.

Geographical significance: let's reach for the maps again -- to good purpose, I might add. Conn. had three areas of colonization, each distinct and separate: the 3 "river towns" of Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor, with "connections" up the Conn. River into Massachusetts; Saybrook and the eastern coastal towns, with much traffic back and forth across Long Island Sound; and New Haven and her neighbors along the western part of the Sound. When the Dutch ceded New Amsterdam, Saybrook lost the Long Island towns to the Duke of York. At the same time, New Haven Colony was absorbed into Conn. proper, its separate existence ending then. Some families left New Haven for the lands developed in New Jersey around Newark. Some of them came back to Conn. later but you might find your migrating Conn. ancestor on the other side of the Hudson River or even the Delaware. Conn. emigrants settled later in the Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania, under Conn. land grants; the jurisdictional dispute over Conn. rights in western lands resulted in the retention for Conn. of a valuable strip of land across northern Ohio, to be known as the Western Reserve -- so Conn. families turn up in Ohio. Watch your New York and Massachusetts boundaries also for wandering families and wandering boundary lines.

Geography is important to the Vt. searcher too. The first actual settlement was made by Massachusetts settlers under Conn. title, but later the land was claimed by both New Hampshire and New York. The "boom" period runs about 60 years after 1760 and started out with the squabbles between two groups of settlers who had paid two colonial governments for titles to identical acreage. This period has been well written up by novelist and historian, with the colorful Ethan Allen and his crew of Green Mountain Boys probably the best known actors on the scene. Not all settlers were from Conn. -- many came from Massachusetts Berkshire towns and up the Conn. River -- but the Conn. influence was strong enough to call the land "New Connecticut" in the first declaration of independence.

To me, true self-government on the local level, based on "the consent of the governed", had its inception in Conn. and was fostered in Vt. Town-meetings in the New England tradition have spread over the U.S. When local governments are orderly, prudent and efficient, we benefit in county, state and federal branches too. Early settlers in Conn. and Vt. had to "make do" in a rural economy and they developed ingenuity and versatility, that is still inspiring. I hope you find your searching there equally interesting.

GENEALOGICAL QUERIES

Inquiries and correspondence for this department should be sent directly to the Queries Editor, Lewis F. Chase, 18656 Filer Ave., Detroit 34, Mich.

1839: M-100: ROBERTS-CLAYSON:- Desire parentage and all available data on Hezekiah Roberts b. New York, ca 1793, m. Hannah Clayton, living in Ontario Co., N.Y. in 1840. Their son Daniel S. Roberts migrated to Orleans Twp., Ionia Co., Mich. in 1833.

1840: F-43: HART-PEMBERTON:- Desire parentage, location in Michigan or any other information on Murray S. Hart, b. New York, 1820, and his wife, Irene Pemberton, b. Ohio, 1824. Children b. in Michigan: Mary A., b. 1847; James J., b. 1851; Murray Jr., b. 1853; Joseph M., b. 1855; Cornelius M., b. 1861; Charles A., b. 1865.

1841: F-43: PENLAND:- Desire parentage, locations, or any other data on Alexander Penland, b. Ohio, 1828, and his wife, Irena (Arena), b. 1838 where? Living in Marion Co., Iowa in 1855. Evan B. Penland, b. Michigan, 1845, perhaps brother to Alexander, also went to Iowa. Have considerable data on these people since their going to Iowa. Would be glad to exchange.

1842: S-8: EVERETT-WELLS-SIPPERLY:- Annette Everett Sipperly was b. 1844, near Disco, Macomb Co., Mich., dau. of Andre and Prudence (Wells) Everett. Andrew Everett was b. 1816, at Pott's Grove, Fenna, and d. 1873, at Rochester, Mich. and is buried there. William Everett, his father, was b. ca 1780, at Pott's Grove. Was William Everett related to Henry Everett, a Virginia soldier of 1776, who enlisted for three years and was granted a pension in 1838?

1843: R-49: ATHEY-ARNOLD:- Hezekiah Athey (Athea), in 1850 Census, Muskingum Co., Ohio, age 69, b. Maryland, and wife, Nancy, b. 1787 in Virginia, had dau. Sarah Ellen, b. 1808, in Virginia, who m. John T. Arnold, b. 1806, Pennsylvania. Wish data on Hezekiah, Nancy, and Arnold.

1844: D-40: ALLEN-CLAUSIN:- Wish all available data on James Madison Allen, b. 1825, d. 1893, and his wife, Rachel E. Clausin, b. 1826, d. 1909, bur. Big Clifty, Ky. Children: Philip, b. 1843; Robert, b. 1845; Samuel, b. 1847, m. Josephine Lampton, (her data wanted); Walter, b. 1848, d. in Texas; John; Sissie; Miranda, m. ---- Tachleburry. Josephine Lampton had sisters: Anna, who m. Frank Birkhead; Nancy, who m. Lee French; Laura, who m. ---- Merrit and a brother, Bertrum, who m. Nannie Allen, dau. of James, above.

1845: R-42: LEE:- Wish parentage, place of birth, and names of children, with proof, of Ashael Lee, b. 1754-5, d. 1817, and his wife, Sarah ----, b. 1758, d. 1829, both buried in Sherbourne Quaker Cemetery, Chenango Co., N.Y. They lived in Columbia Co. in 1790, moving to Sherbourne soon after. They had Rebecca, b. 1779-80, (probably) Levi, b. after 1790, and Luman b. 1794. Levi and Luman removed in 1852 to Union City, Branch Co., Mich. Will exchange data.

1846: R-42: DOANE-MARKHAM:- Wish parentage of Esther Markham, b. 1781, d. 1854, where?, buried in Walker Cemetery, Washtenaw Co., Mich., and her husband, Joseph Doane, b. 1772-3, Dutchess Co., N.Y. whom she m. ca 1798. Children: 1. Erastus, b. New York, 1799; 2. Alexander, b. 1804, New York; 3. Robert, b. 1805, Massachusetts; and 4. Laura. Will exchange data.

1847: B-64: WHALEY:- Wish data on Charles Whaley who came to Spafford, N.Y., soon after 1803.

1848: G-38: HURD-HASKELL:- Edmund Hurd (Heard), b. 1743, son of Edmund and Priscilla (Haskell) Hurd, and bro. of Mark, William, Thomas, etc., m. 1st, Sarah Wellington, m. 2nd, Elizabeth Andrews. He was b. at Ipswich, Mass., lived at Worcester, and possibly at Lancaster. Appreciate any data concerning this family previous to 1800.

1849: S-102: HOLLOWELL-EATON:- Rev. John W. Hollowell of Benton, N.Y., m. in Benton, Va., Jane (Jennie) Eaton. They located at Three Rivers, Mich., in the 1850's, had four children. Were probably Methodists or Baptists. Desire to contact descendants.

1850: S-102: COVERT-SUTTON:- William (1775-1828) and Phebe (Skinner) Sutton of Lodi, N.Y., had a dau. (name unknown) who m. ---- Covert, of Seneca, N.Y., and removed to Michigan in the 1830's. Desire to contact their descendants.

1851: R-37: REED-SIMMONS:- Esther Reed m. 1702-3, Edward Simmons. Both were of Swansea, Mass. Wish their parentage.

1852: C-7: CRANDALL-NASH:- Wish parentage of Polly Crandall, who m. 1830, Ira Nash, b. 1806, Danbury, Conn., lived at Norwich, Smithville, and German Twp., all in Chenango Co., N.Y. He moved to Michigan in 1827 and settled on the shore of Diamond Lake, Penn Twp., in Cass Co. They had eight children, only two of whom were living at Ira's death in 1881. One of these, a dau. Flora, had m. G.L.Linder. Their oldest son was killed in the Civil War, in 1864. Polly had a sister, Olive, who m. Samuel Barden. They came to Cass Co. in 1842, and in 1849 moved to Columbia Co., Wis.

1853: M-111: McLAUGHLIN:- A question of middle initials. Robert William McLaughlin, b. Newark, Mich., 1837, enlisted in Chicago, 1861, in the 19th Infantry, discharged 1862, as a sergeant for disability, reinlisted in New York in the 13th Heavy Artillery, was mustered out as a major, from National Archives. The "Portrait and Biographical Record of Northern Michigan" mentions a Robert N. McLaughlin who "won the rank of Brevet-Brigadier General." Mention is also made on p. 204, vol. 30, 1905, of "Michigan Pioneer and Historical Collections." Now the question is: Were there two Robert McLaughlins, one, Robert W., and a Robert N.? or were they one and the same?

1854: M-111: CASE-MCLAUGHLIN:- Wish birthplace of Lydia A. Case, b. 1825, dau. of Solomon, who m. 1844, (second wife) James McLaughlin, father of Robert (above). 1860 Census, vol. 1, p. 506, Antrim Co., gives birthplace as New York. "Portrait and Biographical Record of Northern Michigan" gives birthplace as Vermont.

1855: F-37: JACKSON-COOK-VARNUM:- Wish birth-place and parentage of Obid (Obidiah?) Jackson, b. ca 1789, in New York state, m. 1st, Varnia Cook; m. 2nd, Lydia Varmum. Known issue: 1. John, b. ca 1819; 2. Andrew, b. Oswego, N.Y., 1824; 3. Warren, b. ca 1828; and 4. James. The family removed to Michigan in 1837.

1856: G-30: MARTIN:- Wish to contact the descendants of John Martin, living in 1901 on Stone Road in the Town of Greece, Monroe Co., N.Y., on the property of Louis Rasha.

1857: G-30: SLARLES-RASHA:- Wish all available data on Eveniezer and Clara Slarles. They had dau. Mary Jane, b. 1822 who m. in Lowville, Lewis Co., N.Y., Louis Rasha.

1837: C-81: WHALEY:- A Reynolds Whealy appears in the 1790 Census, Town of Stephenstown, Albany Co., (now Rensselaer Co.,) N.Y. He may have been married in Stephenstown as there were several Odell families there at that time. His pension papers would tell whether he enlisted in Rhode Island or New York.

Ans. by Mr. Fred C. Haacker, New York, N.Y.

NOTES AND NEWS

ANNIVERSARY ECHOES:- Twentieth Birthday greetings were received from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin of Carlsbad, N. Mex. . . From Miss Mabel Louise Keech of Chicago, who wrote "How I wish I could be with you on this memorable day. As a charter member, I should be there as my interest has never waned. But, on that day I shall attend the laying of the corner stone of the Goodrich Memorial Chapel at Albion College, my Alma Mater." . . From Mrs. D. B. Yntema of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was kept at home by a broken hip. . . From Mrs. William K. Strode of Blair, Neb. Mrs. P. B. Davis of Charleston, Ill. . . and Mrs. C. A. Monteith of Martin, Mich. . . Also from Mrs. M. L. Hoagland of Dearborn, President of the Michigan Society of Daughters of Colonial Wars and from Mrs. Alice T. Miller of Ithaca.

Ten charter members were present at the anniversary luncheon: Mr. Roy McFee, Miss Maude C. Hathaway, Mr. Marquis E. Shattuck, Mrs. Eleanor G. Russell, Mr. L. Austin Pearce, Mrs. Reginald P. Paterson, Mr. Lot A. Merrill, Mrs. William F. Cleveland, Mrs. Hoyt E. Whelan and Mrs. Edward J. Savage. . . We were all happy to see old friends who had travelled some distance to attend: Mr. and Mrs. Lance Adams of Jennison, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Baker of Saginaw and Mrs. George Moran of Marshall, Mich.

CONGRATULATIONS:- We salute for their accomplishments Mr. Fred C. Haacker of New York City, who sends us "One Branch of the Odell Family," a manuscript genealogy which he compiled in 1954. . . Miss Dorris Berning of Reedsburg, Wis., whose records of the Presbyterian Church of Reedsburg are being published by Chedwato. . . Mr. William R. McCann of Hopewell, Va., on his compilation of the descendants of Matthew Current of Bourbon Co., Ky. . . Miss Ferne Elizabeth Adams of Chula Vista, Calif., who represented her family in the Golden Anniversary Celebration of Riverton, Wyo. Miss Adam's father William Stuart Adams was the U.S. Deputy Surveyor who laid out Riverton's original townsite. . . Mrs. Reginald P. Paterson who spoke on her specialty, "Epitaphs," at a meeting in Clawson recently. . . Mrs. Otis McCarthy for her marvelous genealogical example. While wading through a field of high weeds on a hunting trip in Shiawassee Co., Mich., last fall, she "came upon an old cemetery, only a few lonely stones still standing." Immediately she forgot the birds she had been hunting, walked back to the car for paper and pencil, forthwith copied the names on the stones, and sent the record to the DSCR Magazine. That's the spirit.

Mrs. M. C. Fisher of Chariton, Iowa deserves congratulations too - for her good luck. Until she met him in the Fall '56 DSCR Magazine, she had never heard of Peter Hammer, step-father of her ancestor, Nathaniel Bonser. It could be you!

NEW MEMBERS:- Introductions are in order. Mr. Thomas I. Starr is one of Detroit's foremost Lincoln scholars and collectors. . . Mrs. James Michael Artman of Tecumseh, Mrs. Hugh Wallace Glover of Midland and Miss Mary Virginia MacDonald have been associated with President Raub in the higher echelons of Michigan's historical and patriotic societies. . . Mr. William Henry Pitcher is President General of the General Society of the War of 1812. . . Mr. Norris Harris is an instructor in accounting at the Baltimore City College and the Adult Division of the Baltimore Evening High School. . . Mrs. Celia Fleming of Conoga Park, Calif. is searching for some trace of her Hart and Penland ancestors who sojourned in Michigan before 1850 on their way from New York State to Iowa. . . Mrs. Oren W. Rodewald of Muskegon, Mich. comes to us as a friend of Mr. John Clinton Harris of that city, and Mrs. Charles R. Cowdin of Highland Park is similarly introduced by Mrs. A. W. Humphrey. . . Mr. Harry Ferris Johnston, formerly of Buffalo, N.Y. is the editor and publisher of "Your Ancestors."

Our sincere condolences to our charter member Mrs. John Edgar Clapp who lost her husband last September 11. . . Mrs. Frank A. DeBoos of Sarasota, Fla. and Mrs. Fred A. Tiedgen of Glens Falls, N.Y. were summer visitors in Detroit. Both are still interested in genealogy, but "no place to do research where they now live." . . Our former president, Mr. David H. Reynolds Page, of Weston, Vt., is teaching in Detroit again this winter. We are pleased to see him around. . . Miss Rebecca Crittenden of Belding, Mich. plans to spend the winter in southern California, typing her Crittenden Family manuscript for publication. She has been working on it for thirty years.

Any "spare" copies of the DSCR Magazine for Fall 1955, Winter 1955, Summer 1956 and Fall 1956 will be most gratefully received by the Circulation Manager, Mr. Maurice W. Fox, 2832 East Grand Boulevard, Detroit 11, Mich.
